

4 Ways to Teach Your Kids to Give

While Building Their Self-Esteem

Thanksgiving is an opportunity to give back to our community and to build a foundation for our children to participate.

As parents, we have an opportunity to instill the importance of giving with our kids through a seasonal Market Day program.

Even small contributions can make a difference. It's literally as easy as pie. Giving to charity not only helps the people in need, but also helps our own children. It raises their self-esteem, opens their minds to the greater world and helps them build an appreciation for their own lives.

OF SAINT SEBASTIAN

Hey kids, here are 4 easy ways you can spread the meaning of Thanksgiving:

- 1 Send a card to a friend telling them why you're thankful for them.
- 2 Gather a bag of clothes that you've outgrown to give to a charity
- 3 Volunteer as a family. Ask your Mom or Dad for ideas on where to volunteer, then choose which one you'll enjoy doing.

4 Ask your Mom, Dad or neighbor if you can do a special chore to raise $10. (i.e., rake leaves, wash the car, help clean out the garage)

Then, ask your parent to donate this money to buy a Market Day pie that will feed 12 less fortunate people this Thanksgiving.

Dear Mom and Dad, to support your child's effort, simply fill out the form below and return it to the school office with a check made out to Market Day by November 11.

Nancy Wright, our Market Day Rep, will deliver the pies to local shelters to be enjoyed this Thanksgiving. (Also, Market Day will give 30% of this month's pie profits back to St. Sebastian!)
